Spa Sheriff Labels Raid Pure Politics

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Garland County Sheriff Duffie Searcy said Tuesday night that the raid on a club here Monday night by State Police was a political maneuver by Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Searcy said that he would close clubs in Garland County "anytime the state says so."

Faubus had State Police raid Jud's Steak House on U.S. 270. Officers confiscated three slot machines and a quantity of liquor.

"If the State Police or Gov. Faubus had called me or told me that the club was violating terms of its charter, I would have gone to the club and taken action to end the violation or close it," Searcy said.

He was asked by The Associated Press if this meant he would enforce the law after Nov. 3 if Amendment 55, which would legalize casino gambling, is defeated in the general election.

Searcy said, "Well, we don't want to close the clubs unless we have reason to. There's nothing wrong with them operating."

Jud's Steak House might have come under his enforcement, Searcy said, except that "we don't go into private clubs and therefore have no information as to any violation."

He said he was aware that casinos were operating illegally here before Faubus ordered them closed last March, but added, "we've never had any trouble (with the clubs)."

The Hot Springs Chamber of Commerce has been active in the campaign for passage of Amendment 55. The chamber was disturbed by the raid.

Haines Hower, chairman of the chamber's publicity committee, said:

"In view of the fact that there are 74 federal gambling tax stamps in effect in Arkansas, of which only 28 are issued to Hot Springs people, we wonder if the State Police are going to raid the other illegal gambling operations in the other counties."

W. Judson Tolson, operator of the steak house, was arrested and docketed here for displaying gambling machines and possessing legal whisky for illegal sale.

Hurricane Hits Cuba, Heads to Florida Coast

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Isbell struck a savage blow at Cuba's Pinar del Rio Province, drove thousands of Cuban families from their homes, and roared on today toward the Florida Keys and the U.S. mainland.

Havana Radio said houses and buildings collapsed under the battering of 100-mile-an-hour wind, rain and tide in Cuba's westernmost province.

Only one death, a child, was mentioned in broadcasts monitored in Miami, but they indicated that Isbell may have finished a job started by Hurricane Hilda in August — destruction of Cuba's second biggest money crop, tobacco.

Havana itself, the radio said, "will be battered by howling winds and torrential rains" before the hurricane is through with Cuba.

The Miami Weather Bureau said the storm's eye would pass through the 70-mile stretch of water between Key West and the Dry Tortugas.

Gathering constantly greater strength from warm Gulf waters, Isbell was expected to crash into the southwest Florida Gulf Coast tonight and sweep across the Everglades to the Atlantic side.

San Juan, Martinez, Cuba, site of the main plantations which produce Cuba's famous tobacco, was heavily damaged.

It was the second straight year that Fidel Castro's faltering economy had been staggered by tropical storms. Last year, Hurricane Flora stalled over the island for four terrible days, destroying whole towns, villages and crops.

Earlier this year, Hurricanes Hilda and Cleo had dealt heavy blows to sugar, tobacco and other crops and to the island's livestock.

A Weather Bureau bulletin at 8 a.m. (EST) placed the storm center about 60 miles west-southwest of Key West and 200 miles southwest of Miami. The storm had speeded up to 14 miles an hour forward movement.

Just a Few of the Remarks a Political Candidate Is Bound to Tire of Hearing

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks a political candidate gets tired of hearing:

"Remember, Jerry, if you lose this one the only thing left you can run for is — dogcatcher."

"The printer says that if we don't get up the money for your election cards now he'll throw them down the sewer himself."

"One of his troubles is that he gives his speech better when he talks in his sleep than he does when he's awake."

"I think the only votes he's sure of so far are those of people who read billboards aloud with their lips."

"Maybe if we got him to speak in a cemetery we could corral a few ghost votes."

"Now try to get this through your head: At the first stop you munch on Italian salami and some pizza pie. You ask for some bagels when we hit the garment district. And when we pause at Yorkville you say a few kind words about the sauerbraten, your mother used to make."

"You don't campaign on issues anymore. You campaign on your stomach. Why should anybody vote for you if you don't eat the same kind of food he does?"

"Why should we let our tiger debate his opponent on television? That would only let the

In Precinct Fight Republicans Are Working South But Some Old Areas Only Luke Warm

EDITOR'S NOTE — Whatever opinion polls may indicate, it's the number of voters brought to the polling booths by each party on election day that tells the crucial story. Bringing out the voters is the job of precinct workers. How energetic and enthusiastic are they in this campaign, when reported voter apathy may put an extra premium on their efforts? Here are the results of an AP cross-country survey, first of two articles.

By LARRY OSIUS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are working at the grassroots level in the South as never before, an Associated Press survey shows.

But the same survey shows mixed effort by GOP workers elsewhere — warm support for the national ticket in some places, cool in others.

Democrats have been slow in reacting to the Republican challenge in the South. Elsewhere they are concentrating on registering friendly voters and, in some areas, trying to battle overconfidence among their troops.

In historical terms, the Republican party's increased activity in the South may be the most important. For years the GOP structure was more name than fact. Now thousands of precinct workers are beating the bushes, carrying the gospel of a two-party system.

Even Democrats say it's so. An Arkansas Republican estimates 5,000 volunteers in the field working for Goldwater.

Another group, working for GOP gubernatorial candidate Winthrop Rockefeller, is reported to be even farther ahead in organization.

The GOP always, strong in the eastern third of Tennessee, has been lining up potential voters in Memphis and Nashville for months. Willard Yarborough, a Democratic candidate for Congress in the normally Republican Knoxville area, said "the Goldwater people are working their heads off."

In some parts of the South, Democratic organizations rusty with disuse are slowly grinding into action. Florida Democrats say the party is working harder there for Johnson than it did for the late President John F. Kennedy in 1960.

In Georgia, which never has gone Republican, the GOP activity has spurred Democrats to form committees in all 159 counties — many for the first time.

But Ed Kells, managing editor of the Thomasville Times-Enterprise, says of the GOP drive: "It's a militant campaign. The Democrats have nothing that will touch it."

In Alabama, where President Johnson isn't even on the ballot, there is little to counter the Republican thrust. The GOP there is concentrating on getting the lesser candidates elected.

Elsewhere around the nation the picture is mixed. Democrats claim, and some GOP leaders concede — particularly in New England and the northeastern states — that there has been some defection or footdragging by GOP workers not enthusiastic over Goldwater.

A Kansas City Republican ward leader reports that generally "enthusiasm is not at the same high level as in 1960" and predicts a third of the Republicans in his ward will vote Democratic.

In the normally Republican Negro wards of Harrisburg, Pa., GOP workers reportedly aren't even talking about Goldwater.

And Democrats in several states, including California and New Jersey, claim that Republicans are pouring in to work for Johnson.

But there's another side of the coin. Democrats in Washington State, for instance, say Goldwater backers have organized the state "to a gnat's eye," doing a far better job at the precinct level than the GOP has done in years.

Republicans in several states claim they are getting a lot of help from dissident Democrats, but few Democrats report any lack of enthusiasm by their precinct workers for the Johnson ticket.

Argue Rights Case
WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorneys for civil rights demonstrators argued Monday in the U.S. Supreme Court that the Civil Rights Act of 1964 removes from the states any power to continue prosecutions of persons for sit-ins.

The court is hearing two cases involving 1960 sit-in convictions by Negroes at Little Rock and Rock Hill, S.C.

The Arkansas case is from the conviction of five students under state law for a sit-in at a department store facility. A decision is expected later.

Glen Wallace of Nashville Dies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NASHVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Glenn F. Wallace, 71, former state Highway Commissioner, died in a hospital here Tuesday after suffering a heart attack.

Wallace was appointed to the commission by Gov. Francis Cherry in 1952 and became the first member to serve a full 10-year term under the Mack-Blackwell Amendment, which was designed to take the commission out of politics.

A native of Kansas, Wallace lived here about 21 years. He was a cattle breeder, vice president of the Arkansas Livestock Exposition and promoted the state's cattle industry.

He is survived by a widow, a daughter and a stepson.

You Are Now Listed With Credit Bureau

Whether you know it or not, you are probably one of those 15,000 persons listed in the files of the Credit Bureau of Hempstead County, Webb Laseter, owner and manager of the firm, told Hope Kiwanis club Tuesday.

And who are the biggest customers of the credit bureau? The answer: The banks and the FBI. Why the FBI, Mr. Laseter did not say.

Despite the fact that credit reports are confidential information to those businesses and firms that order and pay for them, some information leaks out and often is a source of embarrassment.

This sometimes leads to threats of me being "whipped" real good despite my weight of only 125 pounds, said Mr. Laseter.

And thus some of the little known facts about a fact-finding business was revealed by Mr. Laseter as he launched into his talk. He traced the beginning of credit reporting and debt collecting from its inception date of 1803 in England.

The reports then were known as the "black list" and the first well-known agency was headed by a "Mr. Dun." The "dun" is still commonly known and referred to by that name of people who receive statements for their personal accounts.

The fact-finding business, as Mr. Laseter likes to refer to his business, has prospered down through the years and today there are nearly 3,000 member firms in the Associated Credit Bureau of America, of which the local firm is a member.

This group issued about 74 million credit reports last year covering individuals throughout the United States and many in foreign countries. The fact-built file on each person is carefully compiled from many sources including public documents and records.

In concluding, Mr. Laseter pointed out that the individual himself builds his own record, and "We just keep the records."

Blames Democrats for SS Failure
BENTONVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Jerry Hinshaw of Springdale said here Tuesday night that the Democrats this year deprived more than 17 million persons of badly-needed Social Security benefits.

He said this was done when a bill to increase SS benefits was dropped in the final days of the congressional session. The bill already had been passed by the House, Hinshaw said.

He told the Bentonville Republican Club that the benefits were needed to overcome the loss in purchasing power which he said was caused by heavy federal spending during the past four years.

The proposed $7 a month increase was dropped when it became apparent that the Medicare bill would not pass Congress, Hinshaw said.

Hinshaw, a Republican, is running against Rep. J. W. Trimble, D-Ark.

Johnson Says Republicans in Receivership

By KARL R. BAUMAN

PARAMUS, N.J. (AP) — President Johnson told a cheering crowd today that the Republican party "is now in temporary receivership" and has fallen in the hands of "men who want to repeal the present and veto the future."

Johnson opened a two-day campaign swing with a speech at the Bergen Mall shopping center before a crowd estimated by a state police official at 30,000.

Without mentioning his Republican opponent, Sen. Barry Goldwater by name, Johnson belabored him with vigor as he launched the campaign swing into New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York.

One Held in Kidnaping of American

By PAUL FINCH

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Police held today a society artist they said masterminded the kidnaping of U.S. Air Force Lt. Col. Michael Smolen. They said six other members of the Castrote - Communist kidnap gang also were under arrest.

Luis Vera Bomez, director general of the Interior Ministry, said Angel Luque, 30, a Spanish-born abstract painter, was "the brains of the kidnaping." He said Luque's littered two-room studio had been used to hide Smolen during the 86 hours the gang held him.

Gomez said Luque's studio also was used to hide Argentine soccer star Alfredo Disietano in another propaganda kidnaping by the Red underground last year.

Police said they suspect Luque also was connected with the kidnaping of American Army Col. James Chenault last November.

They also thought he might have been involved in the theft of five French impressionist paintings valued at $650,000 in January 1963.

Disietano and Chenault were released unharmed and the paintings were recovered.

Smolen, 45, of Chandler, Ariz., was released unharmed Monday night after two of the gang were arrested. The arrests of three other gunmen accused of abducting Smolen and of Luque and his wife, Titania, identified as a Russian or Yugoslav, came Tuesday.

Police said Smolen, a World War II combat pilot who is deputy chief of a U.S. Air Force mission in Venezuela, identified one of his captors.

Security Police Chief J. J. Patino Gonzalez said his men learned on Sunday that Smolen was being held in Luque's studio but did not move in for fear that shooting would follow and the American would be hurt.

Luque, a slender man of medium height, was arrested with his wife in the studio. Their penthouse residence is half a block from Smolen's residence, where the colonel was grabbed as he left for work Friday.

LBJ Blamed in Baker Case for Coverup

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater charged today President Johnson has forced a new delay of a Senate investigation "because Bobby Baker's affairs lead right straight into the White House itself."

And the Republican presidential nominee found himself in the middle of a lively word battle with Democrats after an off-the-cuff charge Tuesday night that the rival party was "a Fascist organization that will not even allow a member to speak his mind in favor of a member of the other party."

A Democratic spokesman quickly snapped back with a charge that the Republicans were guilty of totalitarian tactics — "organized boogie groups to keep the opposing point of view from being heard."

With election day less than three weeks away, Goldwater returned to the attack on the Baker case in a prepared (Continued on Page Two)

Tight Credit May Improve U.S. Economy

By SAM DAWSON

AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The economy is so healthy and balanced that the monetary authorities are starting to wonder out loud if tightening of credit later this year might not prove more helpful than harmful.

By helpful they refer to the possibility that the dollar may need further bolstering if U.S. international payments develop more of a deficit toward the end of the year. They also have an eye on early, but still inconclusive, signs that inflationary forces might be gathering strength at home.

By harmful they refer to the much-discussed danger that any reversal of the easy money policy of the past four years might halt the business upswing and abruptly. Right now there's plenty of money and credit for business expansion, home building, consumer spending. Those who want credit would object, however, if the money well suddenly went dry.

Still, Federal Reserve Bank officials here and in Washington are bringing up the question of change — and emphasizing that inflation is still a question and not a present threat.

The federal reserve system has been one of the suppliers of the money and credit that has been readily available during the long business upturn. And, Alfred Hayes, president of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, says this has made a valuable contribution to the economic expansion.

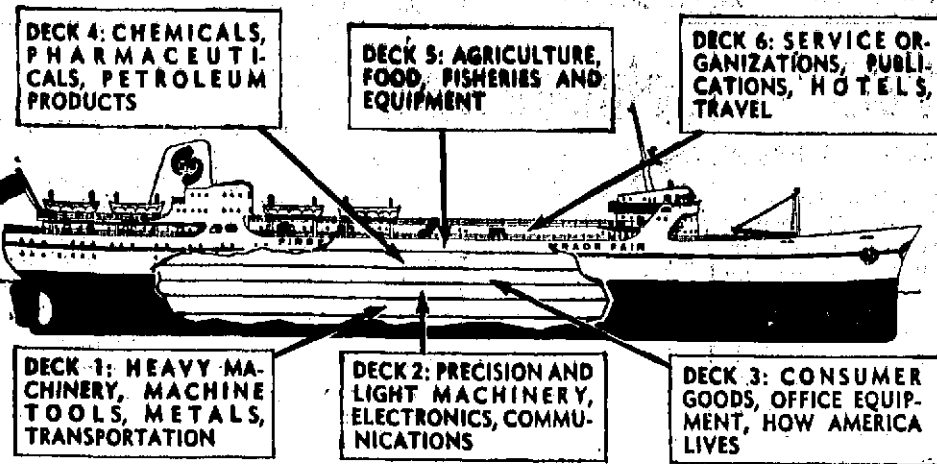

But he adds: "The question could be raised whether continued increases on the scale of recent years might not be a little too generous even from a domestic point of view," let alone the still unsolved problem of the international payment deficit.

"Efforts to reduce the United States payments deficit have made notable progress in some directions, but we still have considerable way to go before we reach equilibrium," Hayes says today in the bank's October Review.

"With domestic business going ahead at a very healthy pace — in part doubtless because of the tax cut — the federal reserve system is, as it must be, ready to do its full part to preserve the dollar as a source of eco-economic strength at home and as the financial keystone for the liberal international economy which we all seek."

The chance of "adverse international developments" is also noted by Guy E. Noyes, adviser to the Federal Reserve Board in Washington. He adds that the board must keep an eye on potentially inflationary forces now beginning to appear at home — forces that could cause the bond to tighten its monetary policy within the next few months.

Forces that must be watched, Noyes says, include "recent isolated price and wage developments" and the recent expansion in money and credit after a period of fair stability.

If the price and wage increases don't spread, the money expansion moderates, and progress in cutting the balance of payments deficit resumes after the setback earlier this year, Noyes says, "There would be no basis or sense in a change in the basic posture of a monetary policy for almost four years now."

speech. The issue he said Monday, "is hurting the President more than anything else."

As a springboard for his new charges, the Arizona Senator used the announcement Tuesday by Sen. B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., that the Senate Rules Committee, which Jordan heads, would delay its probe of Baker until after the election because of the difficulty of getting enough senators to come back to Washington to form a quorum for the committee.

In his speech today, Goldwater said, "The man who now occupies the White House could, by lifting a finger, start the Bobby Baker case on its way to full exposure. Instead he is standing firmly and coldly on the side of deceit and cover-up. 'The man who now occupies the White House is, in effect, telling the American people to go whistle — that so long as he does not want the truth known in the Bobby Baker case, the truth will not be known.' Goldwater triggered his conflict with the Democratic party at a tumultuous rally in the Milwaukee Arena. A crowd estimated by police at 12,000 heard him in the arena, with some 5,500 others hearing him in an adjoining hall over a loud-speaker system.

raged around the eye. Planes at the Key West Navy base were flown out of the storm's path and ships left port to ride out the blow at sea.

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Isbell stormed out of western Cuba today, threatening this picturesque island city and 150 miles of Florida coastline with 80-mile winds and damaging tides.

Hurricane warnings flew from Dry Tortugas eastward to Key West and Marathon in the Florida Keys and up the southwest coast to Fort Myers. A hurricane watch extended from Key Largo, 56 miles south of Miami, across the state to Tampa Bay.

Isbell, the season's 11th hurricane, swept across extreme western Cuba, where there were reports of heavy damage, and moved into the Gulf of Mexico Tuesday night.

Maximum winds were 80 miles per hour, but Isbell was expected to intensify in the warm waters of the eastern Gulf of Mexico. Gales extended out about 80 miles in all directions.

The Navy, which has large installations here, was on an alert, ready to move out ships and planes.

The Weather Bureau said Isbell was expected to take a more northeasterly course at about 12 m.p.h. That would carry the center near Dry Tortugas, a cluster of islands 68 miles west of Key West, about noon and probably to the southwest Florida coast tonight.

Johnson Says

His speech was delivered in the state's Republican stronghold.

In the speech, Johnson said the American people are "weary of those who preach that America is failing in the world and at home."

"The people are tired of being told that their character is in question, their moral fiber riddled with 'rot and decay.'"

"The American people want leadership which respects them — not leadership which berates them."

"Above all else, I believe the American people know that we need not — and we cannot — live as a nation torn apart by factions.

"Good Republicans and good Democrats are good Americans first and last."

"This year good Americans of both parties are determined to put their country first. They intend to vote to preserve the traditions of our country."

Following his speech here, Johnson moved into Pennsylvania for a speech at a Democratic rally at the Wilkes-Barre-Scranton Airport.

After the talk in Wilkes-Barre, Johnson heads for New York where he will attend a dinner tonight honoring the memory of Alfred E. Smith.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Raymond Burr, the eminent television bartender who in seven years has never failed to win a case, came to town the other day long enough to be master of ceremonies at a dinner for Medal of Honor winners. He confirmed reports that he, too, believes he is playing his last season as "Perry Mason."

Without a trace of regret, Burr said, "I think this year will wind it up. And, as you know, there are a number of other projects I have been interested in for some time."

There are, of course, Burr's flourishing art galleries and his interest in legal aid organizations, stimulated by his part in the courtroom series.

"And I've been talking with Don Feddersen (a TV producer) about a new series," Burr said. "It's working title is 'The Power,' and I'll play the governor of a state."

In addition to numerous "Perry Mason" fans who have faithfully followed the CBS show, there will be many veteran actors and actresses who will miss the show.

Gail Patrick Jackson, executive producer of the series and one of its owners, is a former motion picture star who has great loyalty to old friends.

She has always made a special point of hiring, whenever possible, some of the people she calls "old timers — people who were acting when I was."

Some of them are semiretired and, often, well-to-do, but the acting urge remains strong.

Often such familiar motion picture faces as Conrad Nagel, Neil Hamilton, Arlene Judge, Stuart Erwin and Mae Clarke pop up in character parts.

This season the name of Ray Collins, who through the years has been playing Lt. Tragg, Perry's police antagonist, has

"DEAR ABBY"

NATIONAL CUSTOMS!

By Abigail Van Buren

Dear Abby: I saw the bride's shoe passed at a wedding reception after the groom's best man knocked the bride over, sat on her, took her wedding veil off and put it on the groom's head backwards. I had no idea what was going on, and neither did the bride, but she looked very frightened. Later we learned it was an old German custom. This was at our daughter's wedding. We told her we didn't want anything passed around to take up a collection, but her husband took over and did things his way. We had nothing to do with what went on at the wedding. We just paid for it. Love Your column. BRIDE'S MOTHER

Dear Abby: Passing the bride's shoe is an old Polish custom. There are other customs, too. My father, age 75, tells me that years ago a piece of the bride's china was set up against the wall and the guests threw silver dollars at it, trying to break it. (The silver dollars went to the bride and groom.) Each nationality has its own customs. I've attended Greek weddings where candy was passed in church, Italian weddings where they threw money instead of rice at the bride and groom, and German weddings where been kept in the star billing, along with Burr, William Hopper and Barbara Hale. Collins, in all probability, will not appear in a single episode this season. He has been plagued by poor health for the last couple of years, and most often the policeman's role these days is played by Wesley Lau.

the bride was "kidnapped" and the groom had to pay to get her back. Instead of criticizing these customs, we should enjoy them. It's all in fun. J. V. I.

Dear Abby: Passing the bride's shoe to collect money is an old French custom. It originated years ago when the wedding supper took place in the bride's home. The money is not for the bride and groom; it is for the cook! This is the way the guests show their appreciation for the fine wedding dinner. Mrs. K. Lowell, Mass.

Dear Abby: Who but the Hungarians could have dreamed up the custom of passing the bride's shoe among the guests to collect money? It was all done good-humoredly, and each male guest who donated money had the privilege of dancing with the bride. The bride's shoe was "stolen" from her, so she had to dance in her stocking feet. And the object was to take turns dancing with her to keep her away from her husband as long as possible. If they could get the groom tipsy and wear the bride out, all the better. If you can't see the humor in this, you don't know Hungarians!

A Hungarian in New York

Dear Abby: The person who was "Shocked" because the bride's shoe was passed around to collect money was definitely not Polish or she would have known the money collected was for the first baby's crib and clothes. This doesn't necessarily mean that the bride is "expecting" — but it merely is looking

Absolves Jews of Blame for Crucifixion

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

ST. LOUIS (AP) — In one of the bluntest proclamations of its kind, a major church was on record today as repudiating any special blaming of Jews, now or in the past, for Christ's crucifixion.

The action, taken by the House of Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church, dealt with an issue that has locked Roman Catholicism's second Vatican council in prolonged discussion.

"The charge of deicide against the Jews is a tragic misunderstanding of the inner significance of the crucifixion," the Episcopal bishops declared. Deicide means "killing of God."

"Furthermore, in the dimension of faith, the Christian understands that all men are guilty of the death of Christ, for all have in some manner denied him," the bishops said.

This is standard Christian doctrine, but throughout the history of the faith, popular thinking and much church literature often has tended to point an accusing finger at Jews for Christ's death.

A similar declaration absolving Jews of any special blame for Christ's death, was proposed last year before the Vatican council, but subsequently was ahead. Polish in Milwaukee

Dear Abby: Dropping coins in the bride's slipper originated in Yugoslavia many generations ago. Only small coins were donated as the object was not to collect "big" money. The purpose was to have the groom match the amount of money, and it was all a gift to the bride. It was to show that the husband was not flat broke and could well afford to take a wife. Dirty Sidewalks

Editor The Star: Feeling it my duty as a citizen of Hope I aid in the city promotion of cleanup and beautification, I am writing to bring to your attention the problem of keeping the sidewalks in the business district clean.

I noticed in particular the one in front of the old First National Bank building, since I walk this way to work every day. I have heard quite a bit of comment from out-of-town people concerning this eyesore, and I have been tempted to take a broom and sweep it myself.

If this problem could be solved it would greatly add to the appearance of our city.

altered to refer to subsequent generations of Jews.

At the current council session, however, a strong force of Roman Catholic bishops and cardinals have demanded restoration of the original position, denying that any particular blame rests on Jews of any time. The matter remains unresolved.

As the Protestant Episcopal convention went into its fourth day, its lay-clergy branch, the House of Deputies, authorized trial use of a new collection of prayers and scripture at special weekday communion services.

The new workshop materials, the first part of a projected revision of the church's Book of Common Prayer, still was to be approved by the House of Bishops.

Do-or-Die in Series Today for Yankees

By JOE REICHLER

Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The proud New York Yankees, straining to avert their second straight World Series disaster for the first time in 42 years, were hoping for a near miracle as they faced the front-running St. Louis Cardinals in the door-die sixth game today.

Down three games to two — just one away from elimination — pinned his hopes on the right arm of 25-year-old Jim Bouton in a return mound engagement with Cardinal veteran southpaw Curt Simmons.

The two hooked up in the third game with Bouton the winner, 2-0. On the other hand, Cardinal ninth-inning home run at Yankee Stadium. The blast came off reliever Barney Schultz' first pitch.

Even should the Yankees win today, a Herculean task still faces the American League champions. They are admittedly shy on pitching because of the uncertainty of Whitey Ford's physical condition.

On the other hand, Cardinal Manager Johnny Keane's pitching is in fine shape.

Simmons, of course, will be pitching with his normal four-day rest. Should a seventh game be necessary, Keane has the choice of one of three pitchers — southpaw Ray Sadecki, right-hander Roger Craig or Bob Gibson, who struck out 13 in a brilliant winning performance in the fifth game Monday.

Ford's condition has Berra worried. The veteran southpaw, who aggravated an old heel injury in an opening game loss in St. Louis, hasn't worked since. He did no throwing at all in New York's workout at Yankee Stadium Tuesday and must remain a doubtful quantity.

If Ford cannot make it, young Mel Stottlemyre undoubtedly will get the pitching nod in the seventh game, if needed. The 22-year-old rookie right-hander pitched a tough seven innings Monday but wasn't charged with the 5-2 10-inning defeat.

It was his second fine effort, coming four days after he had beaten the Cardinals 8-3 in the second game.

A defeat on top of their four straight losses to the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1963 would mark the first time the Yankees have lost two post-season classics in succession since their back-to-back losses to the New York Giants in 1921 and 1922. Since then they've won 20 out of 26.

The Cardinals haven't fared badly in World Series play, either. A victory would give them seven of 10 and three of five against the Yankees.

Keane, whose Cardinals engaged in a 1½ hour workout at Busch Stadium Tuesday, continued to play it cautious, refusing to make any predictions. He did acknowledge, however, that the Cards were now in the best shape they've been in the entire Series.

"Knowing we can win by taking one of two is bound to give us the edge," he said. "But I'm not underestimating the Yankees. They're a tough ball club."

"We've gotten the breaks so far but we've taken advantage of them. We've also had a few bad breaks but we've overcome them. The Yankees haven't."

"Take Tom Fresh's game-tying home run off Gibson in the ninth inning Monday. That was enough to knock out almost any club. But we bounced right back with three runs in the next inning."

"It's a good thing we did. I don't think Gibson could have pitched much longer. He was a tired young man at the end."

Keane had hoped Julian Javier would be recovered sufficiently from his hip injury to return to the line-up for the sixth game. He had to abandon the idea, however, when his star second baseman complained of pain when he swung a bat.

Javier hasn't played at all except for two innings in a substitute role in the opener.

Meantime, young Dal Maxvill has surprised everybody with his fine all-around play as Javier's substitute. The St. Louis lad has not only fielded well but has contributed several timely hits which figured in run scoring.

THEY ALSO SERVE

It's big year for the college quarterback with names like Roger Staubach, Rolfe Stichweh, Larry Zeno, Fred Mazurek and Jimmy Sidle grabbing plenty of headlines. But a number of other excellent quarterbacks have been overshadowed. Among them are Jerry Rhome of Tulsa, left; Bob Schweickert of Virginia Tech, center, and Bob Berry of Oregon.

Marshall Did Not Play in a Texas Game

By BILL SIMMONS

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Quarterback Fred Marshall is a fifth-year man who is the key to Arkansas' offense and he has never stepped onto a gridiron against Texas.

"Not a down," he emphasizes when the fact is mentioned. He'll get the experience of playing Texas in Austin Saturday night. The game matches eighth-ranked Arkansas with the No. 1 Longhorns.

Marshall says he is looking forward to the experience.

Both teams are unbeaten after four games and share the Southwest Conference lead.

Injuries have kept Marshall, a senior from Memphis, on the sidelines for much of his career, including this season's first two games.

He rebounded from a shoulder bruise, though, and has amassed 387 yards total offense in triumphs over league foes Texas Christian and Baylor.

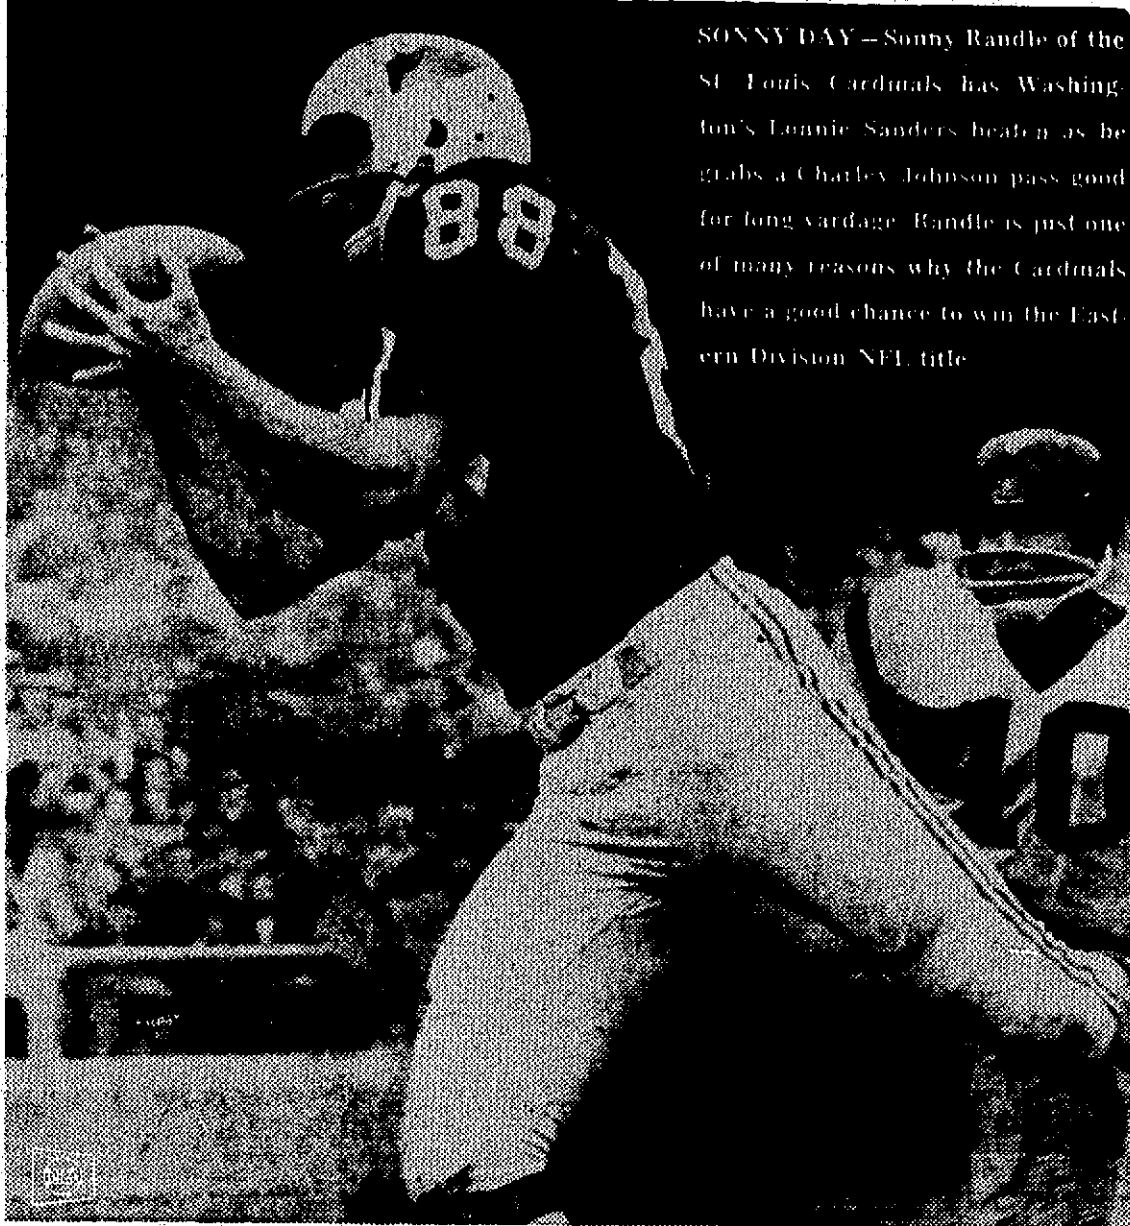

Marshall ran the option for 117 yards and threw for 85 yards against Baylor and it was his greatest game.

He ran for 37 and passed for 148 against TCU.

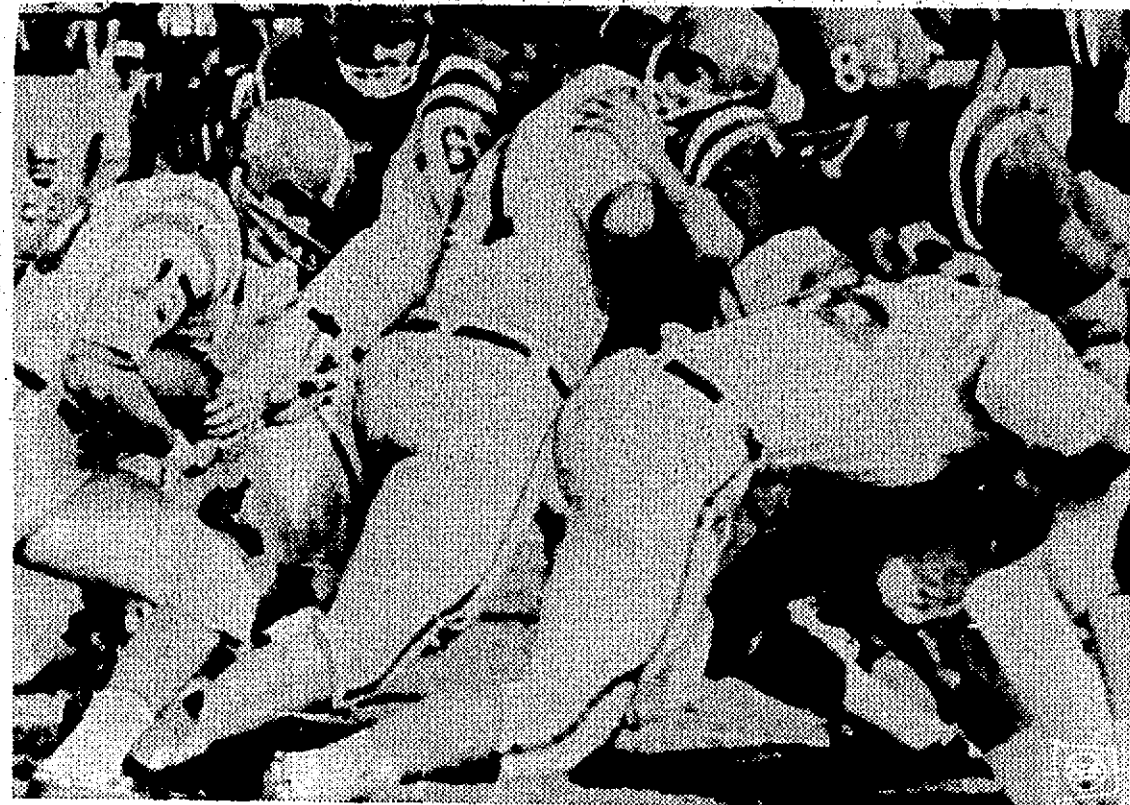

The remarkable thing about the statistics is that with only two games behind him this year, Marshall ranks second in the conference in individual total offense.

He has averaged a gain of 5.6 yards per carry. He has completed 18 of 29 passes for a 620 showing.

More important, he has given the Arkansas offense the balance needed to bounce back from a 5-5 season in 1963. Coach Frank Broyles of Ar-

SONNY RANDLE — Sonny Randle of the St. Louis Cardinals has Washington's Lonnie Sanders beaten as he grabs a Charley Johnson pass good for long yardage. Randle is just one of many reasons why the Cardinals have a good chance to win the Eastern Division NFL title.

MASS MOVEMENT — The University of Kentucky team moved en masse toward national ranking just as the phalanx of burly blockers is doing ahead of quarterback Talbott Todd, carrying the ball here. The Wildcats served notice of a football rebirth by upsetting nationally ranked Mississippi.

Collegiate Grid Passers Going Great

NEW YORK (AP) — Collegiate football passers are surpassing themselves this season.

Tulsa, passing leader among major colleges for the past two seasons, Baylor, Iowa and Arizona State each have thrown for more yards than any team had thrown at the same stage last year, according to NCAA figures released today. And last season was a record year for the country's passers.

Tulsa, with 260.3 yards per game, Baylor with 247.7 yards, Iowa with 236.7 yards and Arizona State with 236 yards lead, the major colleges in passing.

Tulsa, beaten once, also leads in total offense with 446 yards per game. Yale following with 422 yards. Yale leads major kansas pointed up Marshall's importance earlier this year when he said, "Everything that Freddie does will determine how well we do."

And they're doing quite well now, thank you.

Knockout of Sonny Predicted by Clay

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay, still as talkative as ever, held a press conference Tuesday and predicted he would knock out Sonny Liston in the ninth round when they meet in Boston Nov. 16.

Clay said he would beat Liston, "Just like Johnson is gonna beat Goldwater," and said the fight would end in the second minute of the ninth round.

Clay won the title last Feb. 25 at Miami Beach when Liston failed to come out for the seventh round. Before that fight, Clay said he would win in eight.

Clay said Liston would last a little longer in their rematch college ground gainers with an average of 321.7 yards. Scoring leader is Utah State — scoring champion in 1961 and 1963 — averaging 44 points.

Despite its total offense figure, Tulsa does not place among the rushing leaders; Yale, receiving, does not appear among the passing leaders.

Tulsa obviously is making passes pay off. The Hurricanes are second in scoring to Utah State with a 38.7 point average.

U.S. Olympic Cage Team Again Wins

TOKYO (AP) — Henry Iba one of basketball's sternest task-masters, had some kind words to say about his U.S. Olympic team. But even the rare praise had to be considered a major understatement in view of developments.

The United States won its latest game, against little Uruguay, 83-28 Wednesday night.

"Not bad," admitted Iba. "Not bad at all."

He even went further. "I thought they played a real good defensive game and handled the ball very well."

The United States, unbeaten in basketball since the sport was added to the Olympics in 1936, hit 19 of its first 26 shots, flashed out to a whopping 50-13 halftime margin and coasted in from there.

The starting unit didn't see action in the second half.

"I don't believe in seeing how because he's in better condition."

Picks Texas to Defeat the Porkers

By HAROLD CLAASSEN

Associated Press Sports Writer

TOKYO (AP) — The emblem of the Olympics is five interlocking rings, representing five continents. That gives any football selector plenty of room in which to run around — in circles.

Last week's average of .661 made the season's record .670. From a slightly Oriental viewpoint, here are the coming weekend's winners:

Texas over Arkansas: If there is one college football team that can jump from the frying pan into the fire, week after week, it is this year's Longhorn aggregation.

Ohio State over Southern California: Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State doesn't concentrate on non-conference foes but he will want to show the television viewers his new off-tackle play. Tom Barrington is a handy-dandy.

Alabama over Tennessee: The Volunteers have nobody who can equal Joe Namath.

Notre Dame over UCLA: The Irish side suddenly has become respectable.

Michigan over Purdue: The Wolverines have oodles and oodles of talent, including quarterback Bob Timberlake.

Nebraska over Kansas State: The Huskers can run and run many points we can run up against an opponent," was Iba's explanation.

"I'd rather see us run what we're supposed to run out there on the court. By that I mean move the ball and play defense. We will rest our boys whenever we can. There's no use putting in too much work at this time."

The starting unit was composed of Bill Bradley, Princeton; Jerry Shipp, Bartlesville, Okla.; Lucious Jackson, Pan American University; Walt Hazzard, UCLA, and Joe Caldwell, Arizona State.

Caldwell led all scorers with 16 points, Bradley and Jim (Bad News) Barnes of Texas Western each had 12.

The United States is idle Thursday, and Iba planned a brief practice session. Their next game is against Yugoslavia, Russia, expected to be the United States' top opposition, also is 4-0 after an 83-63 triumph over Puerto Rico.

and run.

Kentucky over Louisiana State: The Wildcats, thin in numbers, will be trying to make up for that awful thumping given them by Florida State.

Auburn over Georgia Tech: If Jimmy Sidle and his playmates are going to hit high gear this year, this should be the game.

Syracuse over Penn State: Syracuse didn't issue the same number 44 to halfback Floyd Little that previously had been worn by Jimmy Brown and Ernie Davis just because he passed freshman English.

Navy over California: Wayne Hardin's crew gets back on the right track.

Athletic Director Dies at 71

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Dr. Raymond Rollins Sermon, former director of athletics at North Carolina State College, died Tuesday. He was 71.

Sermon came to N.C. State in 1925 as backfield coach, head track coach and as physician for all of the school's athletic teams. He became athletic director and head basketball coach in 1927 and served in both capacities until 1936.

National League Is Balanced

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League standings this season show about the best balanced race you can imagine. The team offense and defense statistics back it up.

The latest statistics issued by the NFL show the Baltimore Colts as the top offensive team with Minnesota, Dallas and Philadelphia bunched not far behind. All four have shown almost equal balance between gaining on the ground and in the air.

On defense the Green Bay Packers are No. 1 and they've been able to stop enemy passing and running about equally.

Up through Monday night's transferred game against the St. Louis Cardinals, the Colts had gained 1,718 yards with 815 by rushing and 903 by passing. The Cards, to passing team with 1,016 yards are only fourth in total offense and the Pittsburgh Steelers No. 1 in rushing with 827 yards, are eighth overall.

Before passage of the 17th amendment in 1913, U.S. senators were elected by the state legislatures.

Life of Research Satellite Nimbus Was a Fruitful One

Nimbus 1, the 850-pound experimental research satellite launched into orbit August 28, exceeded all expectations in the number of photos it transmitted back to earth, their remarkable sharpness, as seen in these specimens, and its efficiency as a storm tracker. Unfortunately, though designed to operate for six months, Nimbus' 380-orbit life was only 27 days. It ceased operation on Sept. 23, when the solar paddles became locked and could not be dislodged, thus depriving the active components of operating power, which is derived from the sun. Oddly, the first of the 27,000 photos Nimbus transmitted was of a hurricane, Cleo, on August 28 and so was the last picture, of Gladys, on Sept. 22.

These numbers correspond to those on the three Nimbus photos. (1) Florida (2) Tampa Bay (3) Lake Okeechobee (4) Lake Ponchartrain (5) Alabama (6) Mobile Bay (7) Louisiana (8) New Orleans (9) Georgia (10) Mississippi Delta (11) Cuba (12) Hurricane Dora (over Jacksonville, Fla.) (13) Nile River (14) Nile's flooded plain (15) Gulf of Suez (16) Suez Canal (17) Sinai Peninsula.

NEW YORK (AP) - Adam Cartwright met an attractive scoundrel Sunday night on "Bonanza." True to the traditions of television's Old West, we knew that he was a scoundrel almost immediately - he sneaked $50 from Adam's wallet and he kept nipping whiskey from a pint bottle.

Of course, the Cartwrights of the Ponderosa are so rich Adam didn't miss the money. But when a pretty girl's father was shot dead a half hour later, we knew that earnest Adam shouldn't trust that fellow for a minute.

Of course, it worked out in the end. But there was an awkward and phony little scene in which Adam had to pick up a sofa pillow and lo and behold there was the missing bullet everyone had been hunting for. The bullet proved the scoundrel was the killer.

That's the way NBC's "Bonanza" rides along, tall and proud in the network saddle, year after year.

Sunday night's simple, leisurely tale was a whodunit disguised in a 10 gallon hat. "Bonanza" in spite of all the guns, is not a particularly violent show.

It does have a plus in the magnificent scenery - it really soars in color - handsome horses and colorful Western costumes. It is a nice, comfortable program and never makes any demands of the viewer who can even tune in late and catch up with the plot.

Series Swing Back to St. Louis Today

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The World Series swings back to Busch Stadium with its friendly fences today and not one second too early for the big sluggers like Bill White, Roger Maris, Ken Boyer and Lou Brock.

The batting averages of the proven long ball hitters are truly shocking after the first five games. St. Louis, with a 3-2 edge in games, has five of its eight regulars hitting .200 or less. The New York Yankees, supposedly a bundle of muscle, have four starters batting under .200.

White, a substantial home run (21) and runs batted in (102) man during the regular season, is batting .053 with only one hit in 19 at bats. Kenny Boyer, despite his grand-slam homer that won Sunday's game, has only three hits in 19 trips and a .158 average.

Brock, the slugger who came to the Cardinals from Chicago in the deal that made the Red Birds a real pennant contender, has a .182 average.

Over on the Yankee side, Maris, the 61-home-run hitter of 1961, does not have an extra base hit or a run batted in and is hitting .182. Joe Pepitone, normally a power hitter, has a .167 mark.

What is going on? Johnny Keane, the Cardinal manager, offers a partial explanation for the weak hitting in the last three games in New York.

"Yankee Stadium is a tough park to hit in," said Keane. "The shadows at this time of year make it difficult. Of course, that big center field gives the fielders plenty of room to roam and catch fly balls that might have been hit out of our park."

The shadows didn't seem to bother Tim McCarver much. The Cardinals' young catcher leads all the hitters with plump .471 average. Bobby Richardson, .391, Mickey Mantle, .353, and Elston Howard, .313, are the three Yanks over the .300 level.

American Scores Upset in Olympics

By TED SMITS

Associated Press Sports Editor

TOKYO (AP) — Gritty Billy Mills, a Marine from Coffeyville, Kan., won the 10,000-meter run Wednesday in one of the greatest upsets in Olympic history while American swimmers and divers continued to dominate their sport and pushed the leading Yankee medal harvest to 19.

Mills, a 26-year-old crew-cut Marine lieutenant, was timed in an Olympic record 28:24.4 after pulling away from world record-holder Ron Clarke and one of the finest 10,000-meter fields ever assembled.

His victory was the first ever at that distance for the United States. It helped build the U.S. medal count to seven gold, seven silver and five bronze. Russia has eight — two gold, three silver and three bronze.

Other U.S. gold medal winners on this fourth day of the 18th Olympiad were:

1. Ken Sitzberger, River Forest, Ill., who won the springboard diving with a total of 159.9 points and led a 1-2-3 American medal sweep. Frank Gorman, New York City, was second with 157.63 and Larry Anderson, Los Alamitos, Calif., third in 143.77.

2. Cathy Ferguson, Burbank, Calif., who took the women's 100-meter backstroke in world record time of 1:07.7. Ginny Duenkel, West Orange, N.J., was third in 1:08.0.

3. Dick Roth, Atherton, Calif., who won the men's 400-meter individual medley in world record time of 4:45.4. Roy Saari, El Segundo, Calif., was second in 4:47.1 and Carl Robie, Drexel Hill, Pa., fourth.

4. The U.S. 400-meter free-style relay team, also in world record time of 3:33.2. The team was made up of Steve Clark, Los Altos, Calif., Mike Austin, Rochester, N.Y., Gary Ilman, San Jose, Calif., and Don Scholander, Lake Oswego, Ore. orgnl 128, deleting 1st lead 129.

Russia Sticks Its Nose Into U.S. Election

By JAMES MARLOW

Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Russians stick their nose into American presidential campaigns every four years directly, indirectly or accidentally.

It was direct enough last July when Sen. Barry Goldwater won the Republican nomination and Premier Khrushchev accused him of trying "to enter the White House under the slogans of unbridled anti-communism and war threats."

And the Russian leader likened the Republican convention to a Nazi party rally.

Khrushchev has been quiet since. But now Russia has shot three men aloft in a space capsule, circling the earth and outdoing anything this country ever attempted.

It isn't clear whether they had to do this right now for scientific reasons, hoped it might add to the wrangle between President Johnson and Goldwater, or just didn't care.

It's not the first time they did this kind of thing in the midst of a campaign. They did it in 1960, when they orbited two dogs. Not to be outdone, the United States shot three mice aloft before the campaign was over.

Yet, what the Russians did then was like a quiet afterthought to a bad year that got off to a pleasant start.

In 1960 President Eisenhower and Khrushchev not only exchanged Happy New Year greetings but arranged for Eisenhower to visit Russia in June. Then the roof fell down, or rather the American U2 spy-plane did.

The Russians shot it out of the sky over their motherland in May.

In quick order that month Khrushchev broke up the Paris summit meeting with Eisenhower, denounced him, called off the President's trip to Russia, and cabled Democratic party leaders in this country.

He said "broad sections of the (American) public and many prominent political figures in the United States are seriously concerned" about the Eisenhower administration's handling of foreign policy.

One of those receiving the cablegram was Lyndon B. Johnson, then Democratic leader of the Senate and hopefully but unsuccessfully, as it turned out, seeking the Democratic presidential nomination which John F. Kennedy got.

Johnson denounced the Khrushchev message, saying it was an attempt to divide Americans and cripple their bipartisan foreign policy. This didn't keep Khrushchev from getting further mixed up in the American political pot which was coming to a boil.

On June 21 he was expressing hope Americans would elect a president and government that would remedy what he called the mistakes of the Eisenhower administration. He was rebuffed for this by Secretary of State Christian A. Herter who accused him of interference in American internal affairs.

Then on July 13 Khrushchev expressed his opinions to a visiting American — Joseph Curran, president of the National Maritime Union — on Kennedy and Vice President Richard M. Nixon. The vice president had debated Khrushchev in a Moscow display kitchen in 1959.

Curran said Khrushchev disparaged Nixon but thought Kennedy made "some sense." If this seemed like favoritism, it didn't last long. He had some more to say in August in a speech hoping Americans would elect a president whose policy called for improving relations with Russia.

He indicated neither Kennedy nor Nixon was the man and said it was as difficult to choose between them as between left and right in a pair of boots. He called them both "lackeys of monopoly capital." That was in August 1960.

It wasn't all he did that year. In September and October he went to the United Nations in New York and distracted Americans from the campaign with a one-man show which he climaxed by pounding a U.N. desk with his shoe.

Several times Stevenson proposed a ban on hydrogen bomb tests. And twice, to Eisenhower's annoyance, Bulganin wrote, not to Stevenson but to Eisenhower, seconding the motion. Bulganin made his letters public before Eisenhower saw them. This burned up Eisenhower. He told the Russian to mind his own business.

But before election day a thundering international climax made the presidential campaign look almost secondary. The Russians got involved, but this time they couldn't be blamed for thinking it up.

First, Britain, France and Israel attacked Egypt and Eisenhower told them to back up. Then the Hungarians revolted and Khrushchev crushed them with Russian troops. Americans, who had talked of freeing the satellites, did nothing and could do nothing without risking a world war.
